"Chapter 123, Acts and Resolves of 1863"

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE TRUSTEES OF THE BOSTON COLLEGE

Be it enacted as follows:

Section 1. John McElroy, Edward H. Welch, John Bapst, James Clark, and Charles H. Stonestreet, their associates and successors, are hereby constituted a body corporate by the name of the Trustees of the Boston College, in Boston, and they and their successors and such as shall be duly elected members of such corporation shall be and remain a body corporate by that name forever; and for the orderly conducting the business of said corporation the said trustees shall have power and authority from time to time, as occasion may require, to elect a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and such other officers of said corporation as may be found necessary, and to declare the duties and tenures of their respective offices, and also to remove any trustee from the same corporation, when in their judgment he shall be rendered incapable by age or otherwise, of discharging the duties of his office, or shall neglect or refuse to perform the same, and also from time to time to elect new members of the said corporation: provided, nevertheless, that the number of members shall never be greater than ten.

Section 2. The said corporation shall have full power and authority to determine at what times and places their meetings shall be holden, and the manner of notifying the trustees to convene at such meetings, and also from time to time to elect a president of said college, and such professors, tutors, instructors and other officers of the said college as they shall judge most for the interest thereof, and to determine the duties, salaries, emoluments, responsibilities and tenures of their several offices; and the said corporation are further empowered to purchase or erect and keep in repair such houses and other buildings as they shall judge necessary for the said college; and also to make and ordain, as occasion may require, reasonable rules, orders and by-laws, not repugnant to the constitution and laws of this Commonwealth, with reasonable penalties for the good government of the said college, and for the regulation of their own body; and, also, to determine and regulate the course of instruction in said college, and to confer such degrees as are usually conferred by colleges in this Commonwealth, except medical degrees; provided, nevertheless, that no corporate business shall be transacted at any meeting unless one-half, at least, of the trustees are present.

Section 3. Said corporation may have a common seal, which they may alter or renew at their pleasure, and all deeds sealed with the seal of said corporation, and signed by their order, shall, when made in their corporate name, be considered in law as the deeds of said corporation; and said corporation may sue and be sued in all actions, real, personal or mixed, and may prosecute the same to final judgment and execution by the name of the Trustees of Boston College; and said corporation shall be capable of taking and holding in fee simple or any less estate by gift, grant, bequest, devise or otherwise, any lands, tenements, or other estate, real or personal; provided, that the clear annual income of the same shall not exceed thirty thousand dollars.

Section 4. The clear rents and profits of all the estate, real and personal, of which the said corporation shall be seized and possessed, shall be appropriated to the endowments of said college in such manner as shall most effectually promote virtue and piety, and learning, in such of the languages and of the liberal and useful arts and sciences as shall be recommended from time to time by the said corporation, they conforming to the will of any donor or donors in the application of any estate which may be given, devised or bequeathed, for any particular object connected with the college.

Section 5. No student in said college shall be refused admission to, or denied any of the privileges, honors or degrees of said college on account of the religious opinions he may entertain.

Section 6. The Legislature of this Commonwealth may grant any further powers to, or alter, limit, annul or restrain any of the powers vested by this act in the said corporation as shall be found necessary to promote the best interests of the said college, and more especially may appoint overseers or visitors of the said college, with all necessary powers for the better aid, preservation and government thereof.

Section 7. The granting of this charter shall never be considered as any pledge on the part of the Commonwealth that pecuniary aid shall hereafter be granted to the college.

Approved April 1, 1863.

AN ACT TO AMEND THE CHARTER OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE BOSTON COLLEGE IN BOSTON

"Chapter 340, Acts and Resolves of 1908"

Be it enacted as follows:

Section 1. The corporate name of The Trustees of the Boston College in Boston, incorporated by chapter one hundred and twenty-three of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and sixty-three is hereby changed to the Trustees of Boston College.

Section 2. Said corporation may grant medical degrees to students properly accredited and recommended by its faculty; provided, however, that the course of instruction furnished by the corporation for candidates for such degrees shall occupy not less than three years.

Section 3. Section three of said chapter one hundred and twenty-three is hereby amended by striking out the words, "provided, that the clear annual income of the same shall not exceed thirty thousand dollars," in the last two lines of said section.

Section 4. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved April 1, 1908.

THE LAW SCHOOL

HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION

Boston College owes its inception to Rev. John McElroy, a member of the original Jesuit foundation in Boston at St. Mary's on Endicott Street. With the purpose of establishing a college of higher studies for youth, Father McElroy purchased a strip of land on Harrison Avenue, and on this property buildings were erected. The formal opening of the College was delayed by the Civil War, and for a time the buildings were used as a Scholasticate of the Society of Jesus.

Boston College was formally incorporated by an act of the Massachusetts Legislature on April 1, 1863, and was empowered to confer such degrees as are usually granted to colleges of the Commonwealth, except medical degrees. This single restriction was removed by an amendment to the charter, passed by the Legislature on April 1, 1908.

During the presidency of Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, S.J., Boston College transferred its site to Chestnut Hill in Newton, where a more extensive property, suitable in character and location to the foreseen growth of the institution, had been purchased. The four buildings already erected are acknowledged to be among the finest examples of collegiate Gothic in the United States, and visibly reflect the ideals of the founders and their successors.

The Boston College School of Law was established by vote of the Trustees in 1929. The ultimate realization of this project has been prompted by a combination of circumstances which demonstrated the urgent need of such a professional department.

From 1929 to 1937 the school was located in the Lawyers Building, 11 Beacon Street, Boston. On September 1, 1937, specially arranged quarters in the New England Power Building, 441 Stuart Street, Boston, were taken.

“AN APPROVED LAW SCHOOL”

From the very beginning in 1929 the School of Law adopted the Standards for legal education established by the American Bar Association. Three years later on November 25, 1932, the School was rated as an “Approved Law School” by the Council on Legal Education of the American Bar Association. On December 29, 1937, the Law School was admitted to the Association of American Law Schools. The Law School is also duly registered and approved by the New York State Department of Education.

STANDARDS OF THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION AND OF THE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN LAW SCHOOLS

These Associations require that every candidate for admission to the bar should give evidence of graduation from a law school complying with the following standards:

- (a) It shall require as a condition of admission at least two years of study in a college;
- (b) It shall require its students to pursue a course of three years' duration if they devote substantially all of their working time to their studies, and a longer course (equivalent in the number of working hours), if they devote only part of their working time to their studies;
- (c) It shall provide an adequate library available for the use of students;
- (d) It shall have among its teachers a sufficient number giving their entire time to the school to insure actual personal acquaintance and influence with the whole student body;
- (e) It shall not be operated as a commercial enterprise.

SCHOLASTIC REQUIREMENTS OF CANDIDATES

Students entering the Boston College School of Law, as candidates for any degree within the scope of the School, must be at least eighteen years of age and will be required,

- (a) To be college graduates possessing a Bachelor's degree from a college or university of good standing, or

- (b) To have completed at least one-half of the work acceptable for a Bachelor's degree granted on the basis of a four-year period of study in an approved institution. Such work must have been passed with a scholastic average at least equal to the average required for graduation in the institution attended.

A satisfactory certificate from the Registrar of the college attended containing a transcript of the record of study must be sent direct to the Dean of Boston College Law School.

Candidates for the first degree, namely, Bachelor of Laws, must be in attendance during a period of not less than ninety weeks in the day school or one hundred and forty-four weeks in the evening school, and must successfully complete course totaling in time at least ten hundred and eighty hours of class room instruction. Grades of scholarship, upon which the awarding of a degree is made, shall be determined by examination.

RULES GOVERNING ENTRANCE OF SPECIAL STUDENTS

Individuals possessing academic credit less than that required of candidates for degrees will be admitted as special students, subject to the following provisions:

Such individuals must be graduates of high school and at least twenty-three years of age. They must advance good and sufficient reasons for the opinion that their training and experience have equipped them adequately to engage successfully in the study of law.

The number of special students admitted annually may not exceed ten per cent of the average number of students admitted by the School as regular candidates for degrees during the two preceding years. Special students are not permitted to be candidates for a degree. All students who begin the study of law after September 1, 1938, will be required to show the completion of at least two years of college work.

DAY SCHOOL SESSIONS

The regular sessions of the day school will be held on every week day except Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. Special classes, extra lectures, and court practice sessions will be arranged at convenient times during the school year. From twelve to fourteen hours of class room instruction will be required each week. The complete day course covers three years.

EVENING SCHOOL SESSIONS

The evening school will provide the equivalent of the full-time course which is arranged for the day school. Four years of thirty-six weeks each will be required to complete the course. Nine hours of instruction will be provided each week as follows:—

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays—3 hours; 5.30 to 9.30 p.m.

ADVANCED STANDING

Admission to the second or third year class will be permitted to an applicant who, being qualified for admission to the law school under the general rule for regular students, has successfully completed the first or second year of study while in full attendance at a law school approved by the Association of American Law Schools or by the American Bar Association. The amount of credit granted for such previous study will be determined entirely by the Committee on Admissions. At least one full year of work will be required in residence at the Boston College Law School immediately preceding the award of a degree. No applicant will be admitted who, having previously attended another law school, has been excluded from that school and is ineligible to return.

ADMISSION PROCEDURE

1. Those desiring admission to the Law School should communicate with the Dean, Boston College Law School, New England Power Building, 441 Stuart Street, Boston. Application blanks and complete information regarding entrance requirements will then be furnished.
2. Applications are to be made in writing upon the official form.
3. Official transcripts of College records (and of Law School records, in the case of applicants for advanced standing) should be filed within twenty days of registration.

4. A personal interview or an examination may be required by the Committee on Admissions.
5. Notification of the action of the Committee will be sent to the applicant after the application has been completed.

REGISTRATION

Students must register personally at the Registrar's office.

ATTENDANCE

Regular attendance at all classes is required. For every unexcused absence in excess of ten per cent there may be deducted one per cent from the student's grade in the subject involved. The faculty further reserves the right to refuse credit for any course in which the number of absences has been excessive. No student while in attendance at this School shall be registered in any other School or College or in any other Department of Boston College without the written consent of the Dean.

EXAMINATIONS AND RATINGS

Examinations are held at the end of each semester. The following grades are given: A, excellent; B, very good; C, good; D, fair; E, conditioned; F, failure. To gain credit in any course a student must attain grade D or higher. A student who receives grade E in any course is conditioned in that course and, subject to the regulations hereinafter stated, may remove the condition by passing a regular examination in that course. A grade F in any subject or a mark below D in a condition examination constitutes a failure. A student who incurs a failure in any course will be required to attend the lectures and pass a regular examination in that course in a subsequent year. A student forfeits all rights to remove a condition or failure after two years from the date on which the failure or condition was incurred. No special examinations are given at any time.

A student who receives a general average of F in his courses for the year will be excluded from the school. A student who receives a general average of E for the year's work and has a condition or failure for the year's work in two or more full-year courses shall be ineligible for advancement to a higher class and, at the discretion of the executive committee of the faculty, may be excluded from the school. For purposes of computation under this rule a course which is given in its entirety for two hours a week during one semester shall be deemed one-half of a full-year course; a course which is given in its entirety for more than two hours a week during one semester shall be deemed a full-year course. A condition or failure in any course which has not been removed at the end of any subsequent year in which a condition or failure has been incurred shall be deemed to have been incurred in the later year.

A student with a general average of low D who incurs a condition or a failure in a full-year course (as above defined) may be placed on probation. The executive committee of the faculty may impose on a student on probation, the requirement of additional work and the removal of all deficiencies for remaining in the school, for advancing to a higher class, or for receiving a degree.

The faculty reserves the right to change the arrangement of courses, the requirements for a degree and for credits in all courses, and all regulations affecting the student-body. Such regulations may be made applicable to students already enrolled in the school.

In order to take the regular examination in a course a student must become eligible therefor by regular attendance at lectures, by satisfactory class room work and by paying in full all fees due to the school at the time of the examination.

BOARD AND LODGING

Lists of boarding houses can be obtained at the office. The School reserves the right to refuse permission to students to reside in any house not approved by the Committee on Students' Residences.

MAIL

Students should notify correspondents that mail should be sent to street and number of residence or in care of Boston College Law School, 441 Stuart Street, Boston, Mass. Mail cannot be forwarded promptly if addressed simply to Boston College.

FEEES

Tuition Fee—Payable in quarterly installments at Registration and on the first Monday of November, February and April.

For morning courses—annual.....$200.00

For evening courses—annual 175.00

Matriculation Fee—Payable at first term

For new students 5.00

For old students 1.00

For part-time students—per semester hour 12.50

Deficiency and special examination fee 5.00

Graduation Fee—Payable before final examinations..... 15.00

1. The Trustees of Boston College reserve the right to change at any time the amount of fees or charges, and to make such change applicable to students at present in the School as well as to new students.
2. A student who withdraws on account of serious illness or of physical disability shall be given a return of an amount depending on the number of weeks in which he is not in attendance, provided that such amount be not more than half the fee for a quarter. Formal notice of withdrawal, together with doctor's certificate, must be filed with the Dean.
3. In case of extraordinary conditions necessitating withdrawal, due consideration will be given to each case.
4. The institution fee and registration fees are not returnable.
5. Neither late registration nor absence during the term will entitle a student to a reduction in fees.

SCHOLARSHIPS

The President of the College has made available the following Scholarships for the year 1938-1939.

A Two Hundred Dollar Scholarship to the second-year day student who was the highest ranking during the Freshman year.

A Seventy-five Dollar Scholarship to each of the two second-year evening students who were the highest ranking during the Freshman year.

These scholarships will be granted to those students only who have attained a general average of B or better.

DEGREES

The Degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on students who have attained the age of 21 years and who have completed successfully the indicated work in the Law School. The course must be extended over three years in the case of students who attend the day sessions and over four years in the case of those who attend the evening sessions.

Degrees with honors earned in course will be awarded as follows: the degree LL.B. summa cum laude to students having an average of 80 or over; the degree LL.B. magna cum laude to students having an average throughout the law course of 77 to 79 inclusive; the degree LL.B. cum laude to students having an average throughout the law course of 73 to 76 inclusive; provided that candidates for the degree LL.B. summa cum laude and for the degree LL.B. magna cum laude attain an average of A in every year of the law course; and also provided that candidates for the degree LL.B. cum laude attain an average of B in every year of the law course.

Courses leading to the degree of Master of Laws have not yet been established.

PURPOSE AND METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

The prime purpose of a course in law is to provide adequate preparation for the practice of law in any state, and for this reason the general principles of the common law are emphasized. As a result, the student is better qualified to enter the general practice of law than would be the case if instruction were narrowly limited to one particular jurisdiction. Comparative study is made of decisions in all jurisdictions where the English System of law prevails with special attention being given to Massachusetts, the other New England States, and New York State.

The case method of legal education, as followed in the School of Law from the very beginning of the school, conforms to the practice in the leading law schools of the United States today. By this method the student is trained in the art of legal analysis and in the solution of legal problems by a process of logical reasoning. This is accomplished by assigning to students the study of cases in standard case books after which the correct principles of law are discussed and clarified in class.

Courses in Administrative Law, Labor Law, Taxation, Tax Accounting, have been added recently to the curriculum.

LAW LIBRARY

The law library of over 13,000 volumes contains cultural works, standard texts, and reference material, including Massachusetts Reports, Statutes and Digests; State Reports and Statutes, and National Reporter System; United States Supreme Court Reports (with Rose's Notes) and Digest; Corpus Juris; Ruling Case Law; American Digest System; Lawyer's Reports Annotated; American Law Reports; American Decisions; American Reports; American State Reports; English Ruling Cases; British Ruling Cases; English Reprint; English Law Reports; The Canadian Abridgement; United States Code Annotated; Shepard's Citations, Law Reviews, texts and treatises. Students are trained in the use of all the books in the law library. The library is open daily from 8:30 A.M. to 9:30 P.M.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

To inform students of the practical side of the law and to give them an appreciation of the legal profession and the attainments of outstanding men in the legal field, various types of student activities are developed.

Nisi Prius Club

Faculty Advisor—PROFESSOR WALTER R. MORRIS

This Club is composed of selected students from all classes. The Club has its own officers and devotes its attention to the study of questions pertaining to procedure in the courts. Judges, clerks of courts, registers of probate and of deeds, and prominent members of the bar are invited to address the club at monthly or bi-monthly meetings.

Law Clubs

Law Clubs are organized for students in small groups of eight or ten members. Membership is voluntary. Each club is under the direction of a competent leader who is a practicing attorney, and students are instructed in the preparation of cases for trial. Directions are given for searching the law governing the case assigned for trial and practice is provided in writing briefs and in arguing the case before a Chief Justice. Two students are assigned as attorneys for the plaintiff and two for the defendant. After the trial the judgment of the court is given on the merits of the case, on the value of the briefs and the arguments of both parties.

All the students in the school are advised to participate in the law club work, since this practice supplies what otherwise might be a necessary course in the law school curriculum on brief-writing and argumentation. The practical value of this training is very great. It teaches the use of the law library and prepares students for the actual law work which they must do later as practising attorneys in advising clients about the law on disputed cases which may come to them. The study of law is intensified by the realization that even as a law student care must be exercised in protecting the rights of the client. The student realizes that he must not only know the law but be able to organize authorities on his side of the question in an impressive brief, and then be ready to sustain his case with sufficient arguments to warrant a decision in his favor.

Inter-club competition is arranged and final trials are held before Judges of the Court who are invited to co-operate in this activity.

A prize of two hundred dollars, one-half contributed by the Honorable John E. Swift, Justice of the Superior Court, and one-half contributed by the President of Boston College, is awarded annually to the law club winning the final competition.

Law club meetings are held once or twice a month.
